The Hammerum Burial Site

Customs and Clothing in the Roman Iron Age

Edited by Tinna Møbjerg, Ulla Mannering, Hans Rostholm and Lise Ræder Knudsen

A presentation of a small Iron Age burial ground at Hammerum near Herning, Central Jutland. A female grave attracted special attention as it proved to contain extremely well-preserved textiles.

Researchers from a range of disciplines have investigated the Hammerum Girl's grave in exceptional detail. She was clad in a fine woven dress and covered with a shawl as well as some form of blanket. The textiles were produced from local wool but were clearly inspired by contemporaneous continental style. The girl's coiffure also reflects continental influences.

224 pages. Richly illustrated. Hardback.
Published in conjunction with Museum Midtjylland.

Retail price: 300.00 DKK.
